

Management Diagnostics Assist Decision Making

Michelle Christodoulou AFAIM

Managers need reliable inputs for decision making, problem solving and developing people.

Management Diagnostics, Australia's fastest growing resource provider, offers a comprehensive product range of diagnostic tools and instruments, supported by a consultation service.

Manager of Management Diagnostics, Michelle Christodoulou AFAIM, has spent the last year compiling an inventory of world class, cost effective tools and instruments to meet the needs of Australian managers. These include The Leadership Effectiveness Profile, Time Management Effectiveness, Emotional Intelligence Styles and Conflict Style Assessment.

"We find some organisations identify the need to develop people and processes only to discover that the selected training has not addressed the problem. A simple diagnostic tool can quickly reveal the real need, allowing them to target their financial and human resources accordingly," Ms Christodoulou said.

"The Management Diagnostics team has an expert knowledge of all the content areas and functionalities of the tools. We work with clients to determine what is right for them.

"We meet with stakeholders, research and observe operations, and provide recommendations on purposeful instruments to suit challenges.

"The best solution could be a series of tools implemented by the organisation itself, or an entire program designed and rolled out by our team," she said.
