

Accessible Project Management Assessment Tool - Australian Exclusive

Project Management is one of the most highly regarded and sought after management disciplines.

The Project Management Effectiveness Profile assists managers to manage projects in a purposeful and well-executed way.

“This easy to use resource has been highly popular in US and UK markets, and is now being brought to Australia for the first time,” said Manager, Management Diagnostics, Michelle Christodolou AFAIM.

“The Project Management Effectiveness Profile is ideal for ‘accidental’ project managers – that is managers from all facets of a business who are thrown in the deep end and tasked with a project without specialised project management experience,” she said.

“The profile will show you where your current skills are, and where you need to develop to be able to deliver results. This can be followed up with a Skill Builder to form a cost effective training program on project management.

“Project Management fundamentals are being integrated into a wider variety of work tasks. We expect that these tools will resonate with staff that are not in ‘traditional’ project management positions or industries.”

Assessment and development guidance covers key project management areas including goal setting, planning and scheduling tasks, communication clarity, managing under pressure, delegation skills, decision making, change handling ability and results orientation.

The Project Management Effectiveness Profile sells for just $17.95 with sophisticated facilitators and coaching guides also available.
